OBSERVE ANNIVERSARY OF THE EVENT THAT LED TO WAR

Vienna, June 28.—First anniversary of assassination at Serajevo of Austrian archduke, Francis Ferdinand, crime that touched off world's greatest war, was observed throughout Austria and Germany today.

Austrian newspapers devoted columns to eulogies of late heir to Austrian throne. They recalled his effective work in preparation of Austrian war machine, declaring that recent victory at Lemberg was especially fitting at this time because it honored memory of the archduke.

Through a great silent throng, the aged emperor, Franz Joseph, drove today to the cathedral, where special services were held. The crowd, numbering more than 100,000, stood uncovered as the emperor passed and then chanted softly the Austrian national hymns.

Following instructions from the emperor, the day was everywhere observed at the battle front. Commanding officers lectured their troops upon the "murder" of Serajevo and called upon them to avenge the death of Ferdinand.
